

TheParentHood

The Parenthood is a new movement of Australian parents, working together to create a better world for our kids. The Parenthood aims to be a strong voice for mums and dads on the issues that matter to us, at both a local and national level.

Our vision

Parenting, child and youth issues are frequent subjects of discussion by a large and growing community online, yet in public debates on issues from early learning to kids nutrition, school funding or health care, there is no coordinated online organisation connecting and channeling our voice as parents.

The Parenthood will advocate fearlessly and independently to governments, corporations, and other social institutions for changes that will affect our children.

Driven by parent-power and a small team of passionate and nimble campaigners, The Parenthood will act responsively to current issues in a non-partisan manner, leveraging public support to ensure the voice of our constituents is heard loud and clear in the debates that matter.

Who we are

The Parenthood is led by two Campaign Directors (and mums) – Felicity Moore and Genevieve Atkinson, with the support of The Parents Advisory Group.
